The “Kinda Not” group brought their Pastor, more people and included one or two kids. It’s kinda hard to hang out in a poor place, admitting you could use some Bible study help. It’s kinda hard to admit in front of your church or your child that you have never read the whole Bible. But they came, and called others to come. And boy oh boy was Frantz impressed with their attentiveness and help they gave each other. Probably $1.60 was about all they could afford. Humility is about all they had. Maybe humbleness begets humbleness.

In no way do we dislike the swanky church. But we see something we really like in the second church. And money was not able to improve upon it.

*Seedtime does not “sponsor” student fees. If they want to come to class they pay the fee or negotiate a payment plan. Either way they are responsible for their fee. Frantz said everyone paid their fee in both groups.

And as usual, Frantz said the students in both groups just laughed or joked about asking for their money back at the end of class. We always offer it and they always decline. It is just one more reason we feel we are giving the Haitian church a good gift.

Find a bit more news on the back... if you want to know!

Since our last Newsletter in June

- ◇ Frantz recovery In case you missed it before, Frantz has recovered nicely from a motorcycle accident he had while being driven back home from a Discipleship Bible study earlier this year. Yay!
- ◇ Discipleship classes going well We have had the usual struggles to get classes to begin but when they did, classes went very well. Recently Frantz completed a group of 4 quality students in late July and a group of 20 (correction from 19 reported earlier). Frantz said the students told him the first day to bring more books the second day because more were coming. And they did.
- ◇ Supplies arrived We saw our shipment finally arrive in Haiti with more Books and needed supplies to restock Frantz. The delivery was delayed as the Haitian government found guns and ammunition also onboard the cargo ship (of course nothing of ours). Someone told us that illegal guns were a bigger problem than drug trafficking these days. Because of this, cargo ships may now be required to deliver only to the capital, Port-au-Prince. The capital is about 7 hours by bus from Frantz and goes through gang controlled areas, making retrieval of future shipments dangerous or painfully expensive. Prayer requested.
- ◇ Donations detailed We have sent out private letters detailing your financial help this year. Your support is a very practical way of walking with us... to see the discipleship of Haiti continue. If you have not received your personal letter then contact us to correct this. And thank you for your participation with us!

Christmas Bonus for Frantz

I am asking Seedtime Friends if they want to provide a Christmas bonus for Frantz. We want to send it to his Haiti account in November and then let him know in December that the funds are designated for him.

Pray about it, and note such donations on the memo line of the check.
