Friends of Seedtime,

Did you notice a problem with Nov 18th?

The Battle of Vertières was celebrated in Haiti on Nov 18th. This battle brought the slaves victory over the French in 1803 and was followed by Haiti declaring their independence on January 1st 1804. Besides being known as the poorest country in the western hemisphere, Haiti is also known as the 1st Black republic and the 1st country born from a slave uprising.

Famous quotes

“En avant! En avant! La liberté ou la mort!”

“Forward! Forward! Liberty or death!”

It sounds noble, and we easily connect this Haitian rally cry with America’s quote, “Give me liberty or give me death”.

However, Haiti’s General Jean-Jacques Dessalines (think of him as their George Washington) said this after the battle:

“Nous avons osé être libres; osons l’être par nous-mêmes et pour nous-mêmes.”

“We dared to be free; let us dare to be so by ourselves and for ourselves.”

Many folks have noble sounding ideas. But, it is impossible to accomplish noble ideas apart from God. Satan desired a heavenly life and sought it apart from God. Isaiah 14:13-14 describes it. Isaiah describes the result of this choice in verse 12, ... Oh, how you have fallen!

Haiti doesn’t lack what is essential for success.
... They do not lack the ability to place God at the forefront of their thinking.

By choosing to decline God, trying to go it alone, they get a much more desperate situation, seemingly dependent on everyone.

Seedtime reminds Haiti that the choice to seek God is the game changer. They missed this at their beginning and still need it today.

Those who have an ear, let them hear!

Thanks for being a part of this transformative message.
