Friends of Seedtime, Statistically Irrelevant

I have a true story about a Haitian businessman in Haiti. However, I have too few data points to satisfy you in all honesty. My information would not be statistically relevant. You make your own conclusion.

What I can say is I know a guy who ran a small convenience store business out of a broken down box truck on the side of the road in Haiti.

He and his family met with me just 2 or 3 times for Bible study. He was by far the most repentant person I have ever met, not just with words, but actually taking action to turn his life away from sin both at home and in his business.

This man upgraded his business location and continued to build the business.

Today, he owns and operates the biggest retail business in Port-de-Paix, Haiti.

When we're serious about turning to Jesus, big turn-arounds can happen... in this life. And still, our data is considered statistically irrelevant, so no cause and effect can be assured.

You decide what you want to do. But remember, the Bible doesn't say you and a statistically relevant number of your friends must turn to him.

Jesus just asks YOU, singularly, for your heart.

Because you, you alone, are not a statistic to Jesus nor are you irrelevant.

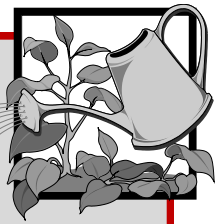

When I met with him, his business was smaller and less fancy than this.

Today, it looks like this...

Thanks for walking with Seedtime!

John 3:21
21 But whoever does what is true comes to the light, so that it may be clearly seen that his works have been carried out in God."

It sure wasn't my Bible studies with him that produced these results! And it wasn't by chance.
